AquaHealth, Incorporated has been tapped as the sustainable bottled water at all official Clinton Global Initiative events this week at the Sheraton Towers in New York City. AquaHealth's sustainable bottled water program gives people the ability to serve bottled water efficiently and cost-effectively, without the environmental costs associated with traditional bottled water. AquaHealth's one liter swing-top bottles eliminates the carbon footprint associated with bottled water's containers, packaging and transportation. With AquaHealth, attendees at the Clinton Global Initiative will get a taste of the future of bottled water.

AquaHealth Premium Water is the sustainable solution to traditional Bottled Water in homes, offices, hotels, restaurants, schools, and any other place where bottled water is served.

Through innovation, technology and customer driven marketing, AquaHealth produces the best water and the healthiest flavored choices available.

In 1992, Founder's Barclay Hansen and Steve Donaghy, set out to find a more sensible, sustainable and efficient way of delivering great water to restaurants in the Boston area. Today, AquaHealth has millions of loyal customers all over the United States.
